INVITATIONS:

Welcome:

This semester the grade eleven North Park Collegiate & Vocational School drama class has created a series of vignettes perform. These vignettes examine the issues surrounding issues of bullying. Some of the topics they have written scenes for are: fitting in, rumours, cyber-bullying, depression, achievement pressure, suicide, drugs, dating and high school socialization.

These students have met with members of the school and outside community in a focus group forum to access data for this assignment. They have also spent time in the library researching particular resources for and agencies that offer aid to students who have been bullied. The focus groups were enlightening for the grade elevens.

I would like to take this opportunity, on behalf of the grade eleven-drama class, to invite administrators and classes to see these talented students perform these vignettes. The show will run approximately 50 minutes in length followed with a 10-minute question period.

It is our hope that this performance will help ease some pressures many students experience because of bullying.

Please contact me if you would like to book a performance for your class. The theatre will accommodate 210 people.

Show date and Time:

Thursday October 19, 2006 9:00 am - 10:15 am NPC theatre

Appendix 3: DAILY CHECKLIST- Anti-bullying Vignettes (Group Work)

Name: _____

REMEMBER the daily checklist counts toward a portion of your mark. Be a productive and respectful member of your group and you will likely reap the rewards. This checklist constitutes 10 % of the overall assignment mark.

The daily checklist is to be taken seriously and reflects the following DURING class time:

- Contributes to group and listens to the ideas of others
- Cooperates with others to plan and participate in the drama experiences
- Participates in group decision-making and problem solving
- Ability to be a respectful audience member
- Willing to take risks
- Challenge your skills/abilities
- Submits assignments as scheduled
- Arrives to class PREPARED
- Works diligently to memorize scene work
- Use of class time.

Dates to remember:

Library/Computer Lab – (insert date) Visitor/Focus Group – (insert date) Initial Rehearsal – (insert date) Dress Rehearsal – (insert date) Performance (invited audience) – (insert date)

We have a great deal to accomplish in a relatively short period of time; consequently not being on task affects everyone.

Have fun with this unit – talk with me if you are feeling overwhelmed. I gave up a charming career as a mind-reader when I became a teacher – so talk with me.

Appendix 7: The Four Pillars of Performance

(used by permission of Brian Speagle)

My colleague Brian Speagle created The Four Pillars of Performance. He and I have made it a staple part of drama at NPC. It helps students to develop their character and eventually perform IN character rather than AS a character on stage. Ultimately, when students follow the Four Pillars they deliver a clean performance fraught with sense of self and assuredness because, in the wise words of Atticus Finch (To Kill a Mockingbird by Harper Lee), they can crawl inside "a character's" skin and walk around. The product is the icing on the cake. The processes are the building blocks.

- 1) CHARACTER: get to know your character;
- 2) NEEDS: wants, desires, objectives or motivations. Your character must know what s/he needs;
- 3) OBSTACLES: how can your character achieve their needs? Plays have obstacles for your character to overcome;
- 4) STAKES: how important is it for your character to overcome the obstacles and achieve their needs? What is at stake?
